Amarillo Backs Off On Metro

Amarillo has apparently backed off on its efforts to seek a new federal grant for operation of the Metro Intelligence Unit.

Reliable sources reported this week that at least two new grant requests are being drawn up by agencies for submission to the Texas Criminal Justice Council for funding.

The News had reported earlier that Amarillo city officials were ignoring a set of resolutions passed by the Metro board of governors concerning the future operation of the unit. Amarillo had prepared a grant request which stipulated that Amarillo would continue as the grantee and the unit would continue operations from an Amarillo Police Department base office.

Sources said Amarillo has backed down on its original grant request and is now preparing another grant request which meets several of the resolutions the board of governors passed several months ago.

Two grant proposals are expected to be presented to Amarillo and Canyon city commissioners and Randall and Potter County commissioners when they meet in a joint session March 14 to discuss the future of the Metro unit.

One proposal is expected to contain a provision that Amarillo remain as the grantee and the other is expected to provide for the naming of Potter County as grantee.

Sources indicated the choice of which proposal to submit for CJC funding will be left to the elected officials of the four governmental entities which have men involved in the controversial Metro squad.

It is expected, though, that at least one of the board of governors' resolutions will not meet approval of the four governmental bodies. That resolution called for a virtually autonomous unit with the unit's coordinator hired by the unit itself and not accountable to any elective body.

Sources said the proposals submitted March 14 will stipulate that the Metro coordinator come from the ranks of one of the law enforcement agencies involved in the unit.

Sources said they expect the proposals to include provisions for fewer men on the squad and for a change in goals for the unit.

As a result of the new proposals, the unit is expected to become a more intelligence-oriented law enforcement arm rather than a purely enforcement arm.

The four governmental

The only way Canyon area residents are seeing any water these days is from a faucet or the end of a garden hose, as a months-long drought continues to plague area farmers.

With the approach of spring, the demand for water is expected to increase in town as well as on the farm.

Promotion To Be Planned

Chamber Seeks New Residents

True to their name, the Canyon Chamber of Commerce will begin plans for what they hope will be a massive effort to attract new residents to the city, an effort which would have considerable impact on the commerce of Canyon.

Directors of the chamber will meet in a special session at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the community center to have what Chamber President John Childs has termed a "brainstorming session," to come up with ideas on ways to promote the advantages of living in Canyon.

The decision to launch the campaign was made by directors Monday night during a regular meeting.

Childs said local merchants and other interested persons are welcome to attend the Monday session to help with ideas for promoting the fine points of the city.

Childs said Canyon is a natural location to take in the growth of industrial development in the Amarillo metropolitan area.

And, he noted that Canyon has many pluses for newcomers seeking a home in a town with few of the usual problems associated with the urban environment.

Canyon, for example, has a school system which has been recognized as outstanding by state agencies.

The city has a small-town atmosphere with a great amount of cultural possibilities with West Texas State University.

"You could send your kids from grade school through a masters' degree and never leave Canyon," Childs said.

In other business Monday night, directors voted to bring a circus to Canyon in mid-May.

The King Brothers Circus will play a one-night show in the city on May 15 with part of the proceeds from the circus going to sponsor Chamber events.

They also laid plans for a town-wide sale for local merchants including a contest and promotional material.

The sale is tentatively scheduled for the week of the Canyon Days Celebration in late June.

Inch Of Rain In Five Months = Drought

Only a little over an inch of moisture has fallen in Randall County during the past five months and the drought has taken its toll in both agricultural production and the potential for production this summer.

The drought, which has parched dryland wheat fields, has also caused extremely hazardous conditions on the county's rangelands which are now highly susceptible to fire, which sparked by high March winds could spell double trouble for area farmers.

Nearly 4000 acres of grasslands were destroyed by fire last weekend south of Canyon as local volunteer firemen worked six hours to contain a blaze fanned by 50-mile-per-hour winds as it cut a miles-wide swath across the countryside.

Other smaller grass fires were reported last week and weekend, according to Fire Chief Jack Jennings.

Jennings warned residents that fire is virtually assured if they burn trash or weeds or carelessly toss cigarettes by the roadside.

"It's just too dry," he said.

Figures compiled by the fire department, the official weather station for Canyon, indicate Jennings and County Agent John Brazzil are not far off when they say the moisture need is critical.

Rains poured just over 3 inches of moisture on the county during August of 1973 and just over 2 inches of moisture during September.

But, with the coming of October, nature's water supply ended.

Only a half inch fell during October. November and December were the worst months with only .03 of an inch falling during November and only .04 of an inch falling during December.

January was little better with only .13 of an inch falling.

February saw nearly a half inch fall in the county.

The normal rainfall during October is 1.76 inches, according to the National Weather Service. Normal rainfall for November is .66 of an inch and for December it is .77 of an inch. Normal rainfall for January is .65 of an inch and for February .62 of an inch.

March is historically a dry month with the normal rainfall totalling only .32 of an inch while winds blow.

Brazzil said the lack of moisture this year has dehydrated a sizeable acreage of dryland wheat due to be harvested this spring. It has also reduced the number of cattle on wheat pasture in the county through the winter months to almost zero.

"We started off 1973 with excellent spring rains and were in beautiful shape at least until the beginning of the wheat harvest in mid-June," Brazzil said.

As farmers continued to harvest a record crop in the county last summer, the rains began to falter and stopped during the summer only to resume sporadically in the late summer and early fall.

Farmers ran into moisture-shortage problems when they began to plant their grain sorghum crops last summer and harvested only an average sorghum crop.

Since the planting of what farmers hoped would be another record crop, rainfall has dropped to almost nothing.

Few cattle were brought into the county this winter to feed on the wheat.

"We had a very drastic decline in the number of cattle in Randall County," Brazzil said. "We were about out of business on stocker cattle by February."

Brazzil said another problem created by the lack of rain is the subsequent lack of underground moisture for future plantings.

But, he noted, there's still hope since the majority of rain the county receives throughout the year comes during May and June.

Don Dolle of the Soil Conservation Service noted that blowing has not yet become a problem in the county even with the dry soils.

He said each windy day increases the hazard of a major dust storm, though, because the wind tends to fragment the soil making it more susceptible to blowing winds.

"We're looking at a potentially bad situation," he said.

City Beauties' Judging Is Sat.

Forty-two girls will vie for the title of Miss Canyon in a pageant to be held Saturday night at the Canyon High School Auditorium.

The theme of the pageant which will begin at 7:30 p.m. is "Signs of the Zodiac."

Dean Kelly of Amarillo will serve as emcee for the pageant. A style show sponsored by the Tweedledee Shop will be staged during the break along with fun antics by members of the Canyon Study Club, sponsor of the pageant.

Judging the girls on poise, appearance and personality will be Mrs. B. Raymond Evans of Tulia, Jeff R. Carlisle, executive vice-president of the Hereford State Bank, and Bill Tell Zortman, Amarillo television newsman.

Tickets will be on sale at the pageant and from members of the Canyon Study Club. Admission will be one dollar for adults and 75 cents for children.

Anyone wishing to purchase a ticket may contact Mrs. Cary Magness at 655-7993, or for any further information call pageant chairman Gayle Gray at 655-4189 or co-chairman Sandra McRoberts at 655-4005.

The judges will meet with and interview all the contestants beginning at noon on Saturday with a coke party. The night of the pageant they will eliminate the contestants to the top 10 and select a winner. There will be no talent or bathing suit competition in the pageant.

Each of the 42 contestants is sponsored by a local business. The sponsor of each girl pays the Canyon Study Club $10 to cover the cost of the pageant and for the financing of special projects of the club.

The contestants and their sponsors are:

Carol Coleman, sponsored by Byrd Pharmacy; Anna Bland Thompson, sponsored by Tweedledee; Eloise Thompson, sponsored by H.R.'s; Roma Johnson, Morrison's W.T. Conoco;

Character Education Is Included In Curriculum

Readin', writin' and 'rithmetic it isn't. But, for teachers and administrators at Rex Reeves Elementary School it may be a pre-requisite before a child will learn his three Rs.

They call it "character education," and in Canyon's elementary schools it's not approached from a hit-and-miss standpoint.

Canyon School Board members learned of character education Tuesday night as they held their regular session on the Rex Reeves campus and listened to teachers explain how they teach Johnny to relate to others, to develop his own self-image, to respect himself and his classmates and to be honest in relationships all as an integrated part of the class day during which Johnny is learning how to read, write and cipher.

"We don't teach math, and English and Science," Principal Bob Parks told board members. "We teach boys and girls and some of the things we teach are to build character — how to deal with life."

Mrs. Vondine McGregor, elementary curriculum coordinator for the school district, explained the philosophy behind the new attempts to incorporate character education into the curriculum.

"It's not anything new," she said. "But, the work we're doing now is not an accidental kind of program. It's planned in the daily schedule."

She said that several years ago, the schools began a drug education program aimed at primarily 6th graders in an effort to warn them of the dangers of drug abuse. The program, she admits, was less than effective.

But, from that drug abuse program, local teachers developed a wide framework and much material for use in classes.

Even before the state stepped in with a program of its own design, Canyon schools developed a program beginning at the kindergarten level "to teach

The country is saved.

College students have turned from political activism to something more in the line of goldfish swallowing.

This time it's streaking. In case you are interested, here's the recipe for streaking as an old fogey sees it. Call a crowd and notify the television stations. It's no fun streaking unnoticed.

Then strip to the skin and run like a bat out of ____ from one dormitory to another. University officials will make noises but they probably won't bother you since most of the administrators are relieved that you are not taking over a public park or occupying the administration building.

The girls have joined in only sparsely. I heard of two girls who streaked at an eastern university and they were so ugly they set streaking back a good year.

Tonight students at the University of Georgia plan to set a new collegiate streaking record when 500 are expected to take to the campus in a flash dressed in their original birthday suits.

Don't expect any mass arrests.

Students have to do something when spring comes and the sap rises. In recent years they sat up all night trying to think up new ways to defy the establishment.

If the truth were known and the innermost feeling of college presidents were made public I'll wager their thoughts overwhelmingly would be, "Isn't streaking wonderful."

As for me, I'm nostalgic. Reminds me of the never to be forgotten panty raids — planned and plotted with the loving care a general would put into a battle scheme — in the days (oops nights) when I was a lad in school.

I have always considered myself a fair cook. Cooking is one of my hobbies and my children have appreciated my efforts.

The other day I decided to make them some sourdough biscuits. It was a dismal failure.

You are supposed to mix up your starter and let it set for 48 hours in a temperature of 85 degrees.

What with the 68-degree mandatory temperature level this created a problem. The starter was bubbling when I got ready to go to bed.

How to keep it warm and bubbling through the night?

I turned the oven on low and put the starter bowl inside. Next morning the starter was dead — prematurely crusted and cooked.

I started over. This time I got up every few hours and put warm water in a stew pan with the bowl of starter floating on it. It bubbled just like it was supposed to do.

I anxiously watched the clock until 48 hours had elapsed. Then meticulously following directions I mixed up a bunch of sourdough biscuits. They were supposed to sit for 18 hours. I kept the water warm under them.

Finally exhausted, I put the biscuits — eleven conventional ones and one in the shape of a half-moon at the insistence of my 5-year-old daughter, Amy — in the oven. For my efforts I got hardtack.

I had a lot better luck with the devil's food recipe used by Nadene Baird and found in the Band Cook Book. It turned out delicious and my kids were most complimentary.

I hope the restaurant operators aren't getting nervous. I really don't think my cooking poses any competition.

Probably the least appreciated luxury in this modern world is simple solitude. I have come to appreciate it, quiet time for thinking and contemplating what a joy it is just to be alive.

Abraham Lincoln, a people lover who reveled in being surrounded by cronies, luxuriated in occasional solitude.

I think many people in this day of rapid communication fail ever to learn to communicate with the person closest to them, themselves.

Try it some time.

Benjamin Franklin was noted for his quick humor as well as his knack for diplomacy.

Once when minister to France he heard his French and English counterparts give flowery toasts to their monarchs. "To His Royal Highness, the King of France — the Sun," toasted the French minister.

"To George III, the Moon," intoned the British minister.

"To George Washington, the American Joshua," replied old Ben. "The gentlemen will remember that it was Joshua who commanded the Sun and Moon to stand still, and they did."

Directors reported they made about $175 on the recent crazy basketball game. The money will be used to purchase a large sign for the city limits to proclaim coming events.

The chamber will cooperate with the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce in producing a brochure for the opening of the new Cornette Library on the WTSU campus, as a result of the directors' action.

The unit has been controversial almost from its inception four years ago. Several members of the squad have been accused of illegal activities and the unit's value has been challenged by various groups.

The unit has also had some successes, including large drug busts in the metropolitan area.

County May Charge Fees For Amarillo Information

Still ired that Amar.llo is charging more than $800 to fight a Randall County fire, county commissioners Monday indicated high charges for services rendered is a game they can play as well as Amarillo city fathers.

Commissioners complained Monday that the City of Amarillo is receiving a large amount of information from the Randall County tax office without paying for the information. And, they indicated, a stiff charge would be in order in light of the exhorbitant rates the City of Amarillo charges to fight a rural fire in the county.

Mrs. Audrey Bruse, tax assessor-collector, told commissioners she gives computer information to Amarillo for automobile registrations without charge. She said the cost to her office for generating the information is about $16,000.

"I suggest we charge them for it," said Commissioner John Fulgenzi. "They charge us for fire service."

"I think it's important we trade-out," said Commissioner Paul Lindsey, "but, it's a two-way street."

Commissioner Jim Fletcher said Randall County has been making efforts to provide cooperative information to the City of Amarillo "for years, but it's never worked out."

Fulgenzi said the City of Amarillo should "wake up" to the fact that "we offer them services at no cost but they keep punching us for money."

Fulgenzi advocated charging the City of Amarillo $16,000 for the computer information furnished by the local tax office.

But, commissioners finally agreed to appoint Fulgenzi and Fletcher to meet with a similar committee from Amarillo to discuss an equitable situation on cooperating for services.

Commissioners tackled another knotty problem during their Monday session — complaints from several women residents of the Mescalero Park addition in the north part of the county that a large bear posed a threat to the safety of them and their children.

The bear, presumably owned by Joe Batson, wealthy Amarilloan, has escaped several times, she said, and, although friendly enough, poses a potential danger.

Commissioners instructed Sheriff Cliff Longest to contact Batson and make arrangements to have the bear moved from the housing addition.

Commissioners gave tentative approval Monday to a floor-plan design for a new courthouse annex in South Amarillo.

Preliminary plans were presented by Art Vaughan, an Amarillo architect, and were given the initial okay. He will return Monday with more detailed drawings as well as elevations and site planning drawings.

Commissioners also received from Road Supt. Joe West a list of the county roads which will be seal-coated during the coming summer.

West presented about 32 miles for seal-coating and about 3 miles which will be new road.

Dr. Dudley Moore, local physician, was appointed county health officer.

The county's personnel policy was amended by commission action to include a provision that all men hired for work on the road crews undergo a physical examination.

New Course Due In Fall

A new program for students at Canyon High School is on the drawing board and planned for implementation next fall.

The program, called distributive education, will be a part of the school's vocational offering and will allow students to work part-time in Canyon retail or wholesale business firms.

Dr. Ken Hart, director of vocational education for Canyon schools, said the new program will be designed to give students experience in sales and personal relationships with consumers.

Students in the program will attend school one-half day and will work approximately one-half day in a retail or wholesale business.

They will receive one hour of classroom instruction on retail sales and marketing which will include advertising instruction and instruction on other facets of the sales business.

Employers will, in effect, become part of the teaching environment for the students, Hart said. They will work with the instructor of the program to aid in teaching students the sales business. They will also be involved in the grading of the students.

Students in the program will be expected to work at least 15 hours each week.

Hart said as many as 35 students have expressed an interest in taking the course.

The program is designed to teach children self-esteem, to increase their skills in decision-making, and to teach them ways to relate to others.

Parts of the Rex Reeves program were viewed by board members by way of video taped classroom situations.

In a kindergarten classroom tape, the Rex Reeves teacher used several techniques to develop a child's self-image.

"Until a child gets to feel good about himself, not a lot of learning takes place," Parks said.

And, the fourth grade situation depicted a teacher using a story to help the children discover ways to be more courteous, kind and respectful of others.

Several teachers told board members the instruction is designed to let the children discover for themselves the values they should strive to emulate, rather than having the teacher tell them in a lecture-type situation.

Following the presentation, Dr. Dudley Moore, school board member, congratulated the teachers on their efforts throughout the year at helping local youngsters.

Board members received copies of the self-evaluation which has been completed by the local school system.

More than 50 teachers and administrators are to examine the local school system as part of the evaluation effort March 18-20.

Members of the Rex Reeves PTA served cake, coffee, soft drinks and punch to board members and about 100 visitors during the session Tuesday night.

City Cautions On Hikes For Water, Sanitation

Canyon city commissioners backed off Monday on City Manager George Loudder's proposals that sanitation and some water rates be hiked for next year.

Commissioners approved setting up a new accounting procedure for the city's sanitation service — an enterprise fund wherein the department would be expected to generate enough revenue to pay its expenses. But, they decided to wait and see before passing increases in sanitation rates which would add a dollar a month to local residents' trash collection bills.

They approved preparation of an ordinance hiking water rates for high-volume users, but left out of their proposal a rate hike for West Texas State University.

During a work session on the 1974-75 budget following regular business Monday night, commissioners considered two of the major revisions in the budget as proposed by Loudder.

Loudder had asked in his proposals that commissioners approve a sanitation hike for local residents and a larger hike for commercial users.

Commissioners Jim Christopher and Willis Harrison urged that the sanitation department be run as an enterprise operation for a short period of time to see how much revenue would be needed to offset expenses.

They hesitated to go along with the rate increases.

Loudder told commissioners he had been contacted by WTSU President Dr. Lloyd Watkins, who asked that the city hold off on a decision to raise by a considerable amount the water rate charged WTSU.

The university is the largest water user in the city and Loudder said the university has never paid even what it costs the city to produce the water it uses.

A committee of H. R. Fulton and Willis Harrison was appointed to meet with university officials to work out the water hike proposal.

Locals who use more than 15,000 gallons of water per month will find their water bills hiked, though, after commissioners pass an ordinance authorizing the increases.

In other business Monday, commissioners awarded a contract for street paving to J. Lee Milligan of Amarillo for about $57,000.

They also discussed the need for maintaining a school crossing guard at 10th Avenue and 23rd Street near Rex Reeves School for kindergarten children.

Loudder said only one child uses the street crossing and that it is economically unfeasible to hire a crossing guard for only one child.

He said he is currently in discussions with School Supt. Jerry Jacobs on the matter and commissioners instructed him to continue posting a crossing guard at the intersection until the matter is resolved.

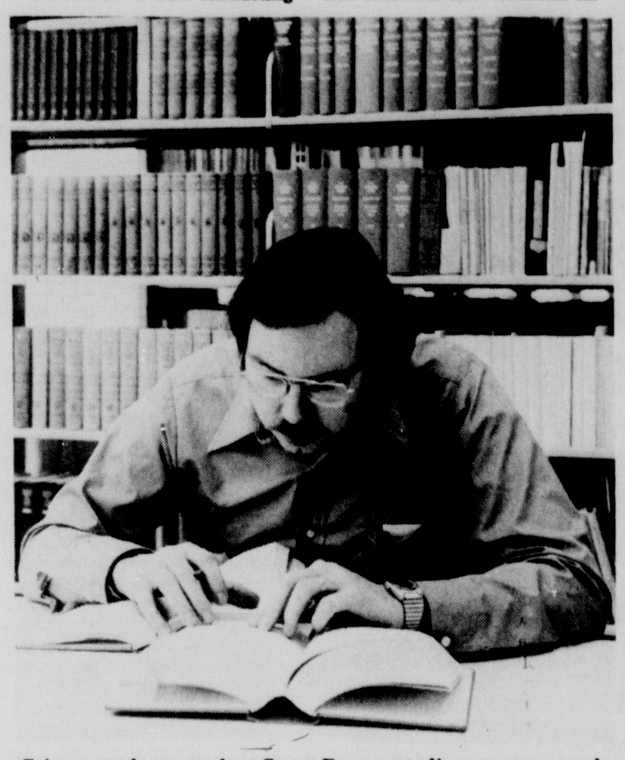
Business, Economic Studies Originate At WTSU Center

By SANDY GREINER

With more than 40 project studies in the past three years to count for experience, the West Texas State University Center for Business and Economic Research continues to do work on a variety of in-depth projects designed to give students a chance at work in the real business world.

The center is now conducting seven studies, with several students and professors in the main stream of activity and research.

A water quality study for the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission is being conducted to study the population and growth in the Canadian River Basin. Students are researching the watershed area for population forecasts and economic impacts of the water project. This study is being done in conjunction with the development of a profile for each of the 25 counties in the PRPC.



Friona graduate student Steve Brown studies census records and geology reports at the Cornette Library in research for a water quality study for the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission. The study is being conducted through the West Texas State University Center for Business and Economic Research.

The profiles for each county will outline housing, population, business, agriculture, oil and gas industry, petro-chemical industry, labor and banking.

Four graduate students from the business department and four faculty members are compiling the secondary data from many sources to make the information manageable and usable for the individual counties.

The studies will be designed in such a way that they may be used for future projections and may be updated with all additional information.

Professor Bill Semmelbeck, who has worked with the projects since the beginning of the center, says that the purpose of the projects are numerous.

The main advantage of the research work is the establishment of a better relationship between WTSU, the Business School and the business world. The real world is brought into the classroom, giving the students practical experience.

Also, says Semmelbeck, students from marketing, computer science, finance, management, and accounting are all allowed to participate in the projects.

Some of the students receive class credit for the undergraduate work, and graduate students may use the work in skill development and toward some class requirements.

The research is not limited to the Business Department, and feasibly professors and students could be called in from almost any department to work with the research.

WTSU is listed as one of the few universities that takes the time to find projects and supervise them for student participation, especially on the undergraduate level.

The Amarillo Board of City Development and the PRPC have been strongly instrumental in helping develop the center with a steady stream of work for the students and professors.

Some of the studies that the center has conducted for the Amarillo Board include studies on the feasibility of establishing a corrugated box plant in Amarillo, a pet food plant, a commercial green house, a mobile home and modular home plant, and a labor survey of Amarillo.

When completed, the studies are mailed all over the United States, thus publicizing WTSU.

The center has been called upon in several instances to help with studies outside the region. The Chamber of Commerce of Liberal, Kan., requested the advisement of the center on how to do a labor survey.

The department also just recently completed a study of the Buying Behavior and Retail Environment of Friona.

Though it is difficult to measure the effectiveness of the project studies in bringing new business, past presidents of the Amarillo Board of City Development, Earl Herring, Glenn Parkey, and Bobby Sanders, the current president, says the studies have been very helpful in establishing a basis for prospective businesses to study the area prosperity and possibilities for industrial growth.

Most market research projects are completed within approximately three months, with some taking less time depending on the nature of the study.

The work done in each study is detailed and complete. Just some of the work completed in the pet food plant study included a collection of figures which told the quantity and value of dog and cat food shipments for the years 1958-1969, the retail sales of dog and cat food for the years 1968-1971, and the advertising expenditures of pet foods for 1969 and 1970.

Also compiled in the study were the labor force estimates and forecasts for Potter and Randall Counties, and a comparison of average weekly wages for Potter-Randall County workers in non-durable manufacturing with all workers in prepared feeds for animals and fowl.

Students working with this particular project also listed the average weekly earnings of manufacturing employees in selected areas.

Other information included the listing of the Amarillo water rates for users located inside the corporate limits, and the number of firms which slaughter more than a specified number of cattle and hogs per month.

Packing plant situations were evaluated, with transportation factors in shipment of inedible materials being studied, and the grain production, along with freight costs were an important factor in the study.

All the studies done at the center are of such detail and complicated researching.

Under the steady direction of Semmelbeck, and other professors in the various related departments, the center continues to produce a steady flow of project studies.

Other professors working strongly with some of the projects have been Dr. Jerry Miller, Dr. Phil Gensler, Dr. Pat Kelso, Dr. Paul Gowens, Dr. Joan Bruno, Roy Martin, Bill Miller, Bill Hillen, Leon Trekell, and Tom Harper, along with several others called in from various departments for special advisement.

The innovative research idea has developed the department into the center which is well known as one of few of its kind in the state, and the only one in the area.

By REBA RAEF

GREETINGS, FROM UMBARGER. This week will be a busy week for the Umbarger community. We will have the volleyball tournament on Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon and evening, March 7, 8 and 9. The games will start at 6:00 p.m. This week is also public school week and we will all be wanting to visit our schools, so, along with our regular activities, we will have a busy week.

WE WILL HAVE plenty of good food at the tournament, so come on out and have a bite with us and watch some good games.

THE UMBARGER 4-H club met last Sunday afternoon in the Columbus Club Hall. Judging teams were organized and plans were made to take part in the Randall County Food and Bake Show, which will be held in the Farm Bureau Building in Canyon on March 30. Adult leaders named to help club members are Milt Suthers, who will help the livestock judging teams; Wade Wilhelm, dairy cattle; Bernard Grabber, rifle events; Darlene Suthers, Share-the-fun contest. Donna Hartman will help the senior girls in the food show and Barbara Hartman will help the junior girls in the food show. The Share-the-fun group and the livestock judging teams will compete at the county level and the county winners will go on to district, which will be held at West Texas State University in April.

MRS. CHARLEY BECKMAN is recuperating at her home, following cataract surgery at High Plains Baptist Hospital on Feb. 25. We wish you a speedy recovery, Katherine.

BOBBY JO AND Joe Boy Fischbacher, children of Joe and Glennis Fischbacher were both patients in Neblett Memorial Hospital last week. We hope they will soon be up and around again.

PAUL AND BETTY Ferguson and daughters have moved into their new home in Canyon. Paul will still work at the Wildlife Refuge, so we probably will be seeing him every few days. We hope the Fergusons enjoy their new home. Our loss will be Canyon's gain. Larry and Rita Wynn will move into the house that was vacated by the Fergusons.

MR. AND MRS. John Beckman of Umbarger and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Batenhorst from Hereford, have returned from a 19 day fishing and sightseeing trip. They went to Florida where they fished in Lake Chicot. In Mobile, Alabama, they visited the U.S.S. Alabama, which has been made into a shrine. They fished also at Panama City, Florida. In Haines City, Florida, they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Golden, John's aunt and uncle, and they all went to see the Cypress Gardens. Carolyn said the gardens are very beautiful.

THEY WENT DEEP sea fishing and brought back about 150 pounds of the fish they caught that day. The captain of the fishing boat told them that they had caught about 11 different species. En route home, they visited Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana. In Monroe, Louisiana, they visited Mr. and Mrs. Charley Milhoan and daughter. Mr. Milhoan is Carolyn's uncle. They reported "a real good time was had by all," and they would like to go again sometime.

DENNIS BRANDT WAS hospitalized last Sunday at Neblett Memorial Hospital. We hope you will soon be back in circulation, Dennis.

MRS. FRANCES GROTEGUT remains in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo and Eddie Huseman is still in Neblett Hospital in Canyon. They might enjoy having a card from their friends. We hope they will soon be home.

"Sing Out America" Staged At Gene Howe

By TROYCE MULHERIN

GREETINGS:

THE THIRD GRADE students at Gene Howe kicked off Texas Public School Week in a big way Monday evening. Our annual patriotic program, titled, "Sing Out America" this time around, was most inspiring. Most enjoyable, too. The program was directed by Mrs. Gerry Woodward, Mrs. Jerri Langen, Mrs. Nynvia Mills (all third grade teachers), and Mrs. Margie Phillips, our music director.

THE GIST OF the program was the telling of the founding of our land, enhanced by the singing of such soul-stirring songs as "Our Country 'Tis of Thee," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "America the Beautiful." "With an Empty Jug," "Goober Peas" and "I Want a Girl," added just the right touch of levity, as did an interesting covered wagon traversing across the stage. Four third graders even grew moustaches to enhance their number. The "Virginia Reel," "Five Foot Two" and a medley number found several of our students demonstrating their expertise in choreography.

SPECIAL KUDOS, TOO, to our third grade moms who not only did the costuming for the program. These energetic ladies furnished the cookies for refreshment time and served as hostesses for the evening.

MRS. LUTHER LAWLESS extended an invitation to all parents to visit in their school this week in observance of Texas Public School Week, and announced the winners in the Science Fair. The students participated in the science fair on their individual grade levels. In the fourth grade Carl Henry was trophy winner. Melinda Yarbrough took first place; Jeff Pike, second place; Denise Tennison, third place; Darryl Bruffett, fourth place; and Richard Ellaesser, fifth place.

FIFTH GRADE WINNERS found Shannon Edwards emerging as trophy winner; first place went to Steve Sellers; second to Craig Lewis; third to Rusty Riley; fourth to Anita Marlen; and fifth to Cyndy Stapleton. Deanna Henwood and Jody Detten walked off with honorable mention in this grade level.

MIKE MARTINDALE WAS trophy winner in the sixth grade. Jadine Burgtorf won first place; Gene Aduddell won second; Eddy Sauer won third place; Tyra Solbrig won fourth place; and Allen Freeman won fifth place. Cheryl Roberts' project earned her honorable mention.

ALL THE PROJECTS, whether adjudged winners or not, were quite intriguing and demonstrated the ingenuity and cleverness of our youngsters! Incidentally, I have an extra copy of the photo of the trophy winners which appeared in the Amarillo paper. Anyone needing same for a proud grandparent, should call and ye shall receive.

MONDAY A WEEK ago, Gene Howe parents were treated to a spring concert by our sixth grade band students. Seventy-five to 80 proud relatives enjoyed the musical selections by these talented youngsters, who study under the direction of Mr. J.W. King. Progress is readily identifiable in relation to these concerts. The youngsters get better and betterer!

SEVERAL GENE HOWE area junior high students were greatly honored recently. Janice Delaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Delaney, was elected Seventh Grade Favorite by her peers. Terry Rudd, son of Mr. and Mrs. B.L. Rudd, was elected as Janice's male counterpart — that is, he is also Seventh Grade Favorite. Steve Zanchettin, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.G. Zanchettin, shares the honor of Eighth Grade Favorite with Brent Anderson. Several tie votes found these personable young men equally participating in this honor. Congratulations to each of you!

PACK 130 CUB Scouts recently held their annual Blue and Gold Banquet honoring the 64th birthday of Scouting. The table decorations were beautiful. Den One youngsters had a color scheme of shades of orange, with centerpieces representing Mardi Gras parade floats. The placemats and favors were decorated masks. Den Two used dinosaur placemats and knights made from salt boxes and tin foil as centerpieces. The favors and napkin rings were shields and helmets. Den Four, the Webelo table, used clowns for their decorating. Sue and Polly Hanson made very creative clown heads for centerpieces. The clown placemats were arranged by Carol Scott and students. Nita Kyle and Ronnie made the napkin rings. Thanks goes to these ladies and Jo Bruffitt for decorating the tables. The youngsters from Dens One and Two made their decorations with the help of leaders, Juanita Evans, Bernice Powers, Joan Hollis, Pat Seth, Sarah Edwards and Jackie Mayfield.

THE DELICIOUS FOOD enjoyed by the 150 people in attendance was prepared by our Cub parents. Thanks go to Helen Newcombe, Bettye Stokes, and Jackie Mayfield for serving.

SPECIAL GUESTS FOR the evening's festivities included the boys and their parents: Bob Bentley, Scout Executive; Sherrie Cates, Institutional Representative; and Ernestine Harp, PTA President.

THE PROGRAM STARTED with the invocation given by Sonny Dove. The opening consisted of a parade by the Cubs in various Mardi Gras costumes. Some of these were clowns, court jesters, robots, cowboys, pioneers and (would you believe?) a deck of cards! Bill Seth announced the upcoming Scout-A-Rama. (Be certain you purchase a ticket for one little ol' dollar from a Cub who knocks on your door). The Scout-A-Rama will be held March 30th.

AWARDS PRESENTED this month were: Bobcat - Gary Don Glenn. (Gary was held upside down by his dad and given the Pack 130 brand). Wolf - Shayne Sanders (also a gold and silver arrowpoint); Scott Powers (with a gold arrowpoint); and Sam Pender. Webelo badges - Ronnie Kyle, Traveler; Kenny Nagunst, Sportsman; and Kent Newcombe, outdoorsman and Citizen. Denner - Greg Persall; Assistant Denner - Kevin Wright.

MIKE GENSLER AND Kevin Oliver were received into Webelos. Kent Newcombe received the highest award given in Cub scouting, the Arrow of Light! This award was presented by Bill Edwards, and Kent was received into Boy Scouts by Bob Bentley.

MR. BENTLEY GAVE an interesting talk on the tools of Boy Scouting during the evening. Sherrie Cates presented Jackie Mayfield and Sarah Edwards with the den leaders award and Billy Edwards with his scouters award. These awards are given for outstanding scout work. Pat Seth led the group in singing.

THE MAIN FEATURE of the night's program was a marionette show presented by the Webelos. These boys each made a twelve inch marionette clown. They used a dowel for the body and a paper mache' head. The lovely suits were made by some of the mothers. The boys (all sixteen of them) presented skits and jokes for the evening's entertainment. Some of the jokes brought back memories for pack reporter, Sarah Edwards, of long forgotten status. Such as, do you know what the judge said when a skunk came in the room? (You guessed it — "Odor in the Court"). A lively rendition of "Good Night, Cub Scouts" closed this important evening.

TOM GERALD, III, D.V.M. has announced the opening of his office for the practice of veterinary medicine at Acoma Pine Veterinary Clinic located at 1203 West Tenth in Amarillo. (Remember the evil villain in that exciting melodrama given during Variety Night? Well, this is one and the same person, and, assurance is given that even though Dr. Gerald would probably like to forget that little acting episode, we are not going to let this tidbit of information fall by the wayside). Back to serious — his office hours are from eight to six, and Tom offers a twenty-four hour emergency service.

AMARILLO AREA COUNCIL of the PTA has been busy, busy, busy and is going to be busier. It and we (Gene Howe PTA) are presently involved in the selling of dollar bars of the World's Finest Continental Almonds chocolate. Yum. Yum. The candy was made especially for the council, and the proceeds from such sales will finance the scholarship presented annually. The Canyon elementary schools are members of the Amarillo Council and any youngsters graduating this year, who attended one of these schools are eligible to apply for this scholarship. If you would like some candy — either to just help out the fund — or to just eat, contact one of the members of Gene Howe's PTA executive committee. (See your school directory for names and telephone numbers).

THE COUNCIL HAS also set March 12, 14, 19 and 21, as the dates for the city-wide Parent and Family Life Education. On Tuesday, March 12th the topic of "How Safe are You?" will be discussed by Jim Lee, Allen Monroe, Gene Hill, Kathy Hufnagle, Officer Kelly, Lt. Bulls and Chief Wortham. Starts at 9:30; ends at 11:30 at the Amarillo School Administration Building. Same times and same place will find the Thursday, March 14th study course covering "Might We Still Have a Problem — Drugs." A film, "The Effective Classroom Approach," will be shown, and Claire Rigler, director of Drug Alert, and Naomi Harney, attorney will speak. Anyone and everyone, PTA member or not, is welcome to attend these sessions.

HAD A PARTY? Going to have a party? Had company? Going to have company? Etc. Etc. Etc. This space is for the benefit of all Gene Howe area people — let us know what is going on in your baliwick. Call 352-6053.

THANKS FOR THE use of the hall.

Troyce

Members of Cub Scout Pack 131 worked this week in a continuing clean-up campaign to collect bottles and cans in the Canyon area. The beautification project will also benefit the Scouts as the aluminum cans collected will be sold for re-cycling. Any Canyon residents wishing to help with the drive may take any cans collected to the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house. The fraternity is aiding the Scouts in the campaign.

Women's Seminar To Begin At WT

Developing a child's intelligence, far east culture and history and communication skills will be topics discussed in a West Texas State University six-weeks seminar "Women in the 20th Century" beginning March 11.

"We need to present women with ways for their advancement," noted Karen Johnson, WT legal counsel and instructor of a seminar topic entitled "Women in the Practical Aspects of the Law."

Each of the six topics will be taught by WT instructors or staff from 7-9 p.m. consecutive Monday nights excluding spring break in the Crockett Junior High auditorium.

"We want to make the resources of WT available to women," Miss Johnson said. "Any one of those two-hour courses could be made into a regular course. It is our hope to find out what women in this area would like to have, and then offer a full course in it in the fall."

The seminar opens with the histories of India and China taught by Charmazel Dudt, Arthur Johnson, Dr. John Kahler and Elizabeth Davidson.

The March 25 session will be "Developing Children's Intelligence" taught by Wilma Jo Bush, who will discuss the factors important for learning the skills of reading, writing, spelling and working arithmetic.

WT instructors Hope McKenzie and Kathleen Collins will discuss "Reading and Writing for Fun" in which they hope to "open the door to the increased enjoyment of literature."

Legal counsel Johnson will outline the effects of the women's equality movement on the legal structure to April 22 participants. And Zell SoRelle will wind up the six-weeks seminar with "You and Your Communication," a course which looks at communication as a behavioral science.

Registration for "Women in the 20th Century" will be on the first class meeting in the Crockett Junior High School auditorium March 11. A fee of $5 will be charged.

Swimming WT Coed Sets Three Records

West Texas State University swim team member Jan Welsch of El Paso set three new state records at the Texas Conference of Intercollegiate Affiliated Women's Swim Meet March 3.

The five-member WTSU aquatic team, organized in late January, and coached by Bruce Bove, competed against 15 other Texas colleges and universities at Pan American University this weekend.

Miss Welsch set state records of 2:02.3 in the 200-meter freestyle, 56:30 in the 100-meter freestyle and 4:20.8 in the 400-meter freestyle. The El Paso sophomore is a former winner of the AAU Lille Kniep Award as "Outstanding Female Swimmer" in Texas and the El Paso Hall of Fame "Athlete of the Year." She held world rankings in the 200, 400, 800 and 1500 meter freestyle in 1971, and she qualified for the American Olympic Trials in 1972.

The University of Texas placed first and Texas Tech second in the contest. The WTSU swim team members Jan Welsch, Jackie Stevens, Marilyn Clack, Dee Dygert and Nina Tucker captured seventh place in the freestyle relay and ninth in the medley relay.

Sorority Members Discuss Contest

Members of the Chi Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Mrs. Monita Benham. Plans for the upcoming volleyball tournament, and a table decorating contest were discussed.

The contest will be held March 16 at Thompson's in Canyon.

Members present at the meeting were Mrs. Marge Sharp, Mrs. Nell Haws, Mrs. Benham, Mrs. Nell Simms, Mrs. Mariann Thompson, Mrs. Jerry Rozelle, Mrs. Juanita Johnston, Mrs. Sue Michael, Mrs. Liz Thompson, and her guest, Mrs. Mickey Rochte.

The next club meeting will be March 19 in the home of Mrs. Michael. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

Palisades Palaver

Church Anniversary Sunday

By MILDRED TURNER

NEXT SUNDAY MARKS the anniversary of the Palisades Church in this building. We started in the Morris Cobb cabin and still use it for the young people's Sunday School Class. In my reminiscences I recall the few who gathered in that cabin with taped music, a few song books, our Bibles as we joined in eager worship. I could hardly hold back the tears (and I'm sure others felt the same way) as we realized that "where two or three are gathered together in my name, I will be in their midst." It was a dream coming true. This little group has been growing steadily since. Spectators and visitors have come and gone but little by little the church is getting to bursting at the seams. The land has been purchased for a new church at the gate and a building fund started. We are so appreciative of Bro. and Sister Gerald Seright, our pastors. Although I was already involved in a S.S. class for years in Amarillo, I still feel real close to this community and especially notice the growth both naturally and spiritually. I got a lump in my throat as I began to read the columns written about it last year. You are invited to come and worship each Sunday at ten a.m. and six p.m. Wednesdays at seven thirty.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO Garland Turner, Shirley Austin and Tootsy on March 7. Tommy McGaha on March 12.

DORA WALDROP ENTERED six of the Range Riding games and took six first places in Barrels, Poles, Ring, Flag, Golfette and the Key Hole. Her time on the Key Hole was 5.3. If your horse even touches the line anywhere you are disqualified. The golfette was called the potato race but with the cost of potatoes, the golf balls were used, which Dora says handle more easily. Also when they are out on the range at these games and races they have a church service on Sunday morning. There will be something real special on the first Sunday in April and May so keep these Sundays open. Will keep you posted. Yea, Dora! We're all behind you.

THIS THURSDAY EVENING at the Hillcrest Baptist Church there will be a singing group known as the Downing Singers. You are invited.

A YOUTH CONFERENCE in helping Junior and High School youth in planning a Christian vocation is being held this Saturday at the First Baptist Church. If you plan to go, there will be refreshments at the Serights and then plenty of transportation to this meeting.

JANET SERIGHT HAD a party for the S.S. groups of grades one through five last Friday evening. Those attending were: Laura Webb, Julie Webb, Doug Moore and his friend Andy, Tim Carlile, Nancy Inman, Danny Roulaine, Robert Boothe and his cousin Marcy, Ranelle Walker and Michelle Walker. Bro. Seright showed films and Janet served refreshments. From the reports I got it was a very exciting time for all.

TALKED TO MYRTLE Forster this week and she was so happy that Robbie Dee has got to visit her for a few days. That is Robbie's little truck sitting there. She and Ed are moving to Guymon for his next big job but are looking forward next to being in Clovis, N.M. for a long while, which will be so much closer than Sterling, Colo. where they have been.

ENJOYED VISITING WITH Cleo Farr at the gate Saturday and also Lena Edwards. Lena says she's having a garage sale before too long.

FLASH! THE TREE has been planted (thanks to Jairrel and Nell Moore) The wind was high but they got it out. Thanks for all the donations and let us all remember this is "our" tree so as you come and go pour a little water on it. Keep the donations coming in, there are more plans. Make suggestions to the board and watch for bulletins on the work crews. We need your help. If we all work together we will have a good time and accomplish much.

"DOST THOU LOVE life? Then do not squander time; for that's the stuff life is made of." Benjamin Franklin.

DPS To Toughen On Speeders

Texas Department of Public Safety officials announced this week a crackdown on drivers who refuse to obey the 55-miles-per-hour speed limit now in effect on Texas highways.

Officials said when the new mandatory speed limit went into effect in January many motorists were complying voluntarily, but in recent weeks a trend has been observed which indicates motorists are "inching" up their speeds.

Highway patrolmen will intensify their efforts to catch speeders "until a more reasonable voluntary compliance is achieved," the officials said.

A LITTLE WAYS OUT - A LOT WAYS BETTER

New Trends In Public School Art

By ANN MELIN

It seems fitting that one of the highlights of Public School Week in Canyon should be an exhibition of artwork by students from Rex Reeves and Gene Howe Elementary Schools.

The show, currently on display in the Randall County Courthouse Annex, eloquently reveals that public school art has come a long way since the days of "fill-in-the-dots" and "color-the-firetruck-red."

No longer is art considered a vehicle for teaching children manual skills, or for keeping youngsters busy while teacher catches up on her paper-grading.

One of the most enthusiastic spokesmen for the new philosophy of children's art is Marilyn Warren, fifth grade instructor at Rex Reeves Elementary. Although the teacher says she can't remember doing anything worthy of the name "art" when she was in grade school, she says teaching art to students has become a source of never-ending excitement for her.

"Art gives all children the chance to express themselves," she says. "Many who can't express themselves orally or in writing, will do it in art."

Not only does art challenge students to use their imagination, it sparks a creative impulse in the teacher as well, Mrs. Warren says.

"I like to take an idea and then let them create something from it. You might smell chocolate in the room — that's from a project we've just been working on.

"We've been studying industrialism, you see. One of the disadvantages of mass production, we decided, was a loss of pride in one's work. One student pointed out that if everybody had to sign what they did, we wouldn't see as much shoddy material.

"In order that the students understand better that feeling of pride in accomplishment, I asked them to do something completely outside of class — anything they wanted to do that they could take pride in. That explains the chocolate. . . one student brought some brownies to school this morning.

"Another little boy brought some orange sherbet he'd made by himself. He brought some paper cups and dished out a serving to each student in the class."

Another student pointed with pride to his "pop art" creation which consisted of Coca Cola cans welded together in pyramid effect, with a light bulb fixture at the top.

The teacher plays a vital role in providing students with motivation to create, Mrs. Warren says.

"You have to accept what they've done. You can't say that this piece of art is better than that.

"And you can learn so many things about a child from his art," said Mrs. Warren, and to prove her point, she held up several works in which children were instructed to "find designs and objects" amid a scrawl of disjointed lines and curley-ques.

"This student looked at the lines and found tropical birds, this student saw fish. Another child saw clowns and dogs. Some students will look at the lines and find tiny, tiny, objects. Others will see great big designs. . . I think this kind of exercise shows a lot about how children view the world. . ."

In yet another assignment, students in Mrs. Warren's class were given several different kinds of wallpaper, and were instructed to superimpose their own pictures onto the paper based on the color schemes or designs of the paper.

"Children know more about color and design than adults realize. For instance, one student saw in the blue-and-green pinstripe wallpaper a seascape." A khaki green pinstriped wallpaper brought to mind a prison to one child, who put a woebegone convict behind its bars.

Mrs. Warren says she likes to bring art into play in other areas of study, like literature. Students are often assigned to create a three-dimensional figure depicting their favorite literary character.

By letting children "do it themselves," Mrs. Warren says her students often come up with ideas she doesn't think she could have thought of herself.

When assigned to make his favorite literary character, one student created a construction paper Huckleberry Finn. Using only the roughest materials, the child managed to depict his carrot-topped hero, complete with straw hat, patched trousers, fishing rod and hooked fish.

"Admiring her pupil's handiwork, Mrs. Warren smiled proudly, and said, "I couldn't have done this myself."

Senators Reject Moving Basketball Back To City

With only one affirmative vote, West Texas State University student senators voted Monday afternoon to continue to support a collegiate basketball program in Amarillo's civic center coliseum.

Action on a motion to ask WTSU administrators to schedule at least 75 per cent of the home basketball games in the old WT fieldhouse next season had been originally tabled by senators at an earlier meeting.

John Lair, Canyon senator and head of a committee which originally proposed adoption of the motion, cast the only assenting vote as senators turned the proposal down.

Senate action Monday followed a presentation by Keith Winter, director of development at WTSU, who read Senators excerpts from several letters and argued himself for keeping the basketball program in Amarillo.

Winter stressed that the university has a committment to play basketball in Amarillo.

He read a letter from Mickey Holmes, commissioner of the Missouri Valley Conference, which outlines the nature of that committment.

Holme's letter to Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, WTSU president, states that "I don't think there is any doubt but what the subsequent admission of West Texas State University to Conference membership was predicated, at least in part, on its playing home-Conference games at the Amarillo Civic Center."

Holmes' letter outlines the motion made in 1970 when WTSU was admitted to the athletic conference:

"It was moved by Dr. Johnson. . .that if West Texas State University were accepted, that the membership should be encouraged to schedule it in basketball. . .(and) further that West Texas State play its Missouri Valley Conference games in the Amarillo Civic Auditorium."

Although he did not make a formal presentation, Athletic Director Gene Mayfield was on hand at the Monday Senate meeting and Winter gave newsmen a copy of a letter from Mayfield to Watkins concerning a possible move of the basketball program back to the campus.

Mayfield's letter terms a move back to campus "unwise," and outlines the problems the program would encounter in scheduling, recruiting and financing that might be forthcoming with a return to Canyon.

The athletic director noted 11 inadequacies in the old fieldhouse on campus including availability of restrooms, air-conditioning, parking, and poor visibility.

Basketball Coach Ron Ekker was not present at the meeting, but he too, turned in a letter to Dr. Watkins which was released Monday.

"I feel that moving our home games back to the campus Field House would seriously hinder the progress of our program," Ekker states.

He, too, outlined inadequacies in the fieldhouse which would make a good basketball program difficult.

Student advocates of moving the program back to Canyon had argued originally that students living on campus are unable to attend basketball games staged in Amarillo due to transportation difficulties.

Winter told the students that the university will provide all buses needed to transport students to the games in Amarillo, if interest is shown in the project.

Chili Supper Tonite

Some 1,850 tickets have been sold for the Rex Reeves PTA Chili Supper, slated from 5 to 8 p.m. today in the All-Purpose Room of the Elementary School.

While bowls of steaming chili will be the main attractions of the dinner, another feature of the event will be Laurel & Hardy comedies, which will be screened throughout the evening.

PTA President Ann Carlisle said that enough chili has been prepared to feed 2,000. Preparation was by PTA mothers, supervised by Ruby Bond, Rex Reeves cafeteria manager.

Tickets for the supper will be sold at the door, Mrs. Carlisle said. Ticket prices are $1 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for pre-schoolers.

Scouts To Compete In Mixed Olympics

Over 200 Explorer Scouts from 30 posts and nine different counties will compete in the West Texas State University Activities Center Saturday in a mixed sports olympics competition. Registration begins at 8 a.m. March 9.

Boys and girls from ages 14 to 20 who are members of the Boy Scouts of America's advanced group are eligible to compete in the varied events, according to Karen Johnson, WT legal counsel.

The activities will be both team and individual competition, with first-, second- and third-place medals to be awarded. Among the areas of competition will be track and field, swimming, basketball, riflery, archery, ping-pong, tennis, weight lifting and bowling. A general knowledge test will also be administered, Miss Johnson noted.

The winners of the WT meet may elect to compete at play-offs at Colorado State University in August.
